

Seminar: Win - Win Negotiations: Tactics & Skills

Course Description:

The role of key people in any organization and industry is almost constantly up for negotiation. The advantages of negotiation in business cannot be underestimated. Achieving a beneficial agreement is the ultimate goal when doing business negotiations. But it is only those that are mutually beneficial that truly bear fruit. Often, this could be the determining difference between business that thrive and those which are merely maintained. Negotiators need to cooperate with bargaining counterparts to create value for both sides. The knowledge of the different strategies, tactics and skills required for such purpose is therefore important in every negotiation. The aim is to win, not by defeating the other side but by winning them over to jointly explore and choose the best options to be agreed in their business relationship.

Seminar aims:

Often the choice is not 'if' we will enter into negotiations but 'how' we get through them. More importantly how we get through them to a successful deal. The way in which we approach the other side and the issues to be negotiated as well how we choose to elaborate arguments are all essential elements of the negotiation process that will be analysed with practical examples and exercises during the course, setting as a goal the achievement of a win – win business deal.
